Gladys Swarthout Replaces Speaker At Commencement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Midwestern graduates of George Washington University went out into the world today with the sweet notes of Gladys Swarthout's voice ringing in their ears. Instead of the customary words of wisdom from a commencement orator, President Cloyd Marvin explained the University presented the singer rather than a speaker at the exercises last night because of the important role that music plays in national life.

Pattullo Says B.C. Won't Be Bulldozed By Eastern Agitators

VANCOUVER, Feb. 23.—Premier T. D. Pattullo today said "eastern protagonists of disunion and disruption" that British Columbia is ready to co-operate fully with the Dominion in working out problems to mutual advantage, "but we are not to be bullied, bulldozed or coerced."

Mr. Pattullo, in an address to Vancouver's Junior Board of Trade said that for some time now there has been a movement in progress to centralize authority in the Dominion.

"Recently a suggestion was made that provincial legislatures should be abolished," he said.

By WALLACE CARROLL

British Union Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin
LONDON, Feb. 23.—Parliament was asked to authorize an increase of the personnel of the Royal Air Force by 6,000, bringing the total to 102,000 men.

Issuing supplementary estimates, the cabinet asked for the 6,000 increase. An accompanying memorandum said that because of the new satisfactory response to a call for recruits the force had already reached its present authorization of 96,000 men so that the increase was necessary.

Italy Looks to Anglo Mediation

Rome Newspapers Vision Settlement Of Colony Claims

ROME, Feb. 23.—Hints of mediation by Prime Minister Chamberlain of the differences arising from Italian aspirations toward French territory appeared today in two Italian newspapers.

Il Popolo Di Roma, in a dispatch from London, said Mr. Chamberlain was preparing a plan to settle Italy's yet unsettled claims for French colonial concessions.

Il Resto Del Carlino of Bologna, one of Italy's leading provincial organs, at the same time listed Fascist obstacles to mediation. Mr. Chamberlain, it said, Italy would prefer Chancellor Hitler of Germany to the prime minister, but "sincerely hopes for success" on the British part.

Il Popolo's dispatch said overtures were made by the Earl of Perth, British ambassador in Rome, to Mr. Chamberlain, and said Italy would prefer Chancellor Hitler of Germany to the prime minister, but "sincerely hopes for success" on the British part.

AMUSEMENT TAX TO BE COLLECTED UNDER NEW PLAN

Tightening up of amusement tax collections is aimed at in the amendment to the Amusement Tax Act introduced into the legislature by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of revenue and industry.

Under the set a new form of admission ticket to theatres is authorized. This ticket is a combination admission ticket and tax and the tax will be brought together so as to insure a tax being purchased with every ticket. A strip of the ticket will be retained by the purchaser.

The present revenue from the amusement tax is about $150,000 a year and it is expected that the tightening of regulations will not only increase the revenue but it will also reflect the cost of theatre employees and other amusement places.

It is expected the new ticket will be used first in the cities and later will be extended to other parts of the province.

Dorothy Says She's Laughing At Free Speech

British United Press

DETROIT, Feb. 23.—Sinfuete Lewis, novelist who wrote "It Can't Happen Here," admits that it has happened but denies vehemently that his wife, columnist Dorothy Thompson, had been "heckling" speakers at a German-American band meeting in New York.

"The just asked to let on the phone, and she asked me to deny that she was heckling the Henry Lewis."

"She was just laughing at their preposterous speaker, to show the facts of free speech. America would give her the protection it was according to an alien propaganda."

Lewis said the band members were "covering their bloodstained black-jacks under the mantle of George Washington."

Convention Charges Industry Exploited At Loss To Producers

Compulsory licensing and bonding of dealers, drovers, shippers and truckers of livestock was demanded Thursday morning by the western Canada livestock association at the Macdonald.

The resolution as approved by the convention stated that the industry had been exploited by certain persons at the expense of the number of producers.

Open debate on the motion which charged that bonding and licensing on the stipulated basis would be an infringement of personal rights but, when the vote was taken, no opposition to the resolution was shown.

The resolution pointed out that the "Dominion and provincial governments have spent considerable sums in the promotion of the livestock industry and further, that the industry has been exploited by certain persons at considerable loss to a number of producers."

It was asked that "the four western provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, take immediate steps to provide adequate legislation for the protection of livestock producers."

The union passed another motion.

Japanese Plead Bombing Mistake

Destruction Of Rail Station Is Explained

TOKYO, Feb. 23.—The Japanese foreign office announced today the bombing of a railway station within British Hong Kong Tuesday had been explained as a "mistake" to the British ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie. It was said Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita invited Sir Robert to call today and had offered an explanation of the attack, saying one Japanese plane dropped a projectile within the crown colony boundary "by mistake". Arita expressed regret.

(Nine persons, including a British Indian policeman, were killed when a railway station on the Canton-Kowloon railway was struck. Hong Kong officials were inclined to consider it a "localized incident".)

Japanese Seeking Suppress Crime Wave

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—Japanese authorities seeking a stronger hand in administration of the international settlement of Shanghai today presented their requests to representatives of nations holding the concession.

The Japanese have conferred with civil authorities of the settlement and with the commanders of British and Italian defence forces today were to confer with commanders of the United States forces.

The Japanese ascribed their pressure for a greater hand in the internationally administered settlement to the necessity of suppressing a wave of crime, including the assassination of pre-Japanese Chinese.

The Chinese press said henceforth families of assassinated officials would receive between 10,000 and 100,000 Chinese dollars from the Japanese-sponsored Nanking government.

Mah Kee Washee Goldfields Chinese Laundryman Goes Arctic

GOLDFIELDS, Feb. 23.—Mah Kee, Goldfields' lone Chinese operating a profitable laundry for the mining camp, has gone north.

Recently the Chinaman acquired a dog-team, which he uses to pick up and deliver laundry.

In mukluks and parks this middle-aged Chinese presents a strange contrast to pictures of an arctic explorer. He has a back home in bare feet and straw hat.

Mah Kee ventured north from Alberta, seven years ago and seems quite satisfied to live alone on the Yukon.

As to being busy his gasoline lamp generally shines on an unheated window seat, and Mah Kee is not coming off nightshift at four o'clock.

He admits however, that like the miners for whom he washes, he enjoys a bit of Scotch.

In spite of making parks and mukluks, Mah Kee still retains his shuffling Chinaman gait and it is a hunch he sets free with chopsticks.

Province Can Take Action TAX DEFAULTS

Warning Issued Following Proposal To Withhold Collections

If a municipal council withholds collections of the social service tax, which are to be turned over to the municipal affairs department, the department has authority to discontinue the collection of the tax.

The statement was made when the department's annual meeting of the municipal affairs department was held at Stornoway.

At the meeting a resolution was passed instructing the municipal council to hold back payment of the social service tax for this year, totalling $2,000, unless the government returns to the municipality in the form of a grant a total of $2,350 collected from the Stornoway municipal district, since 1935.

A meeting of the municipal council is scheduled for Mar. 13.

Outside of published reports of the meeting, no information was available regarding the action.

France Takes Firm Stand On Policy Of Peace With Honor

By HENRY CASSIDY
Associated Press Foreign Staff

PARIS, Feb. 23.—France, with what was considered implied support from the democracies, today took the firm stand for "peace with honor" that she has adopted since Italy started the campaign for a share of French African colonies.

Frederic Daladier, in an address last night to the American Club of Paris, made plain his government's policy of bending every reasonable effort to maintain peace but refusing to yield to blackmail.

"The policy of the government," he declared, "is to maintain peace with honor."

Daladier spoke while Prime Minister Chamberlain, in a speech at Blackburn, England, was quoting Shakespeare to the effect that "Come the three corners of the world in arms, and we shall shock them."

Some saw the speech as another evidence of a hardening stand by Great Britain and France against the German-Italian-Japanese coalition.

Mr. Chamberlain offered trade to Germany in return for friendship, but warned that Britain was strong enough to maintain her "liberty against any who might be rash enough to attack them."

Nowhere in Daladier's address was there a reference to Germany by name. But the Premier's remarks on "liberty" and a determination to keep France's "liberty" were in French eyes plainly directed to Italy.

Although Italy has not previously refused to attack them."

Erskine People Found Growing Marijuana

ERSKINE, Feb. 23.—For several years, the residents of Erskine and district have been growing hemp for a windbreak. But recently an article appeared in a current magazine telling of efforts to stamp out marijuana, a drug derived from hemp plant life, originally from Mexico, spreading widely across a great part of the North American continent. It said to be particularly hard to control because easily grown and is found in many back yards.

There is a possibility that the hemp is the same as used for a windbreak in Erskine. The Dominion government has banned the sale of any kind of hemp seed. Several gardeners in the district who had grown hemp in ignorance of its drug producing power, had been forced to destroy their plants.

NO NEW TAXES TO BE FEARED BY AMERICANS

Business Men May Hope
For Improvements Henry
Morgenthau Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau told United States business men today they not only need not worry about new taxes but may hope for improvements in present laws to help business.

Expanding on and endorsing President Roosevelt's statement of last week that business men need fear no new taxes, the treasury secretary said:

"I think the business man ought to feel that the administration wants him to go ahead and take normal business risks and make money."

NO TAX PROPOSALS

The secretary said definitely that no tax proposals except re-examination of existing income taxes and possibly a measure to raise approximately $200,000,000 in benefits, had been brought to his attention.

He indicated that even proposals for new taxes to pay for increased expenditures have been brought forward for fear of depressing business, and he said it was "likely" that further defense expenditures would be financed by borrowing.

shared formally her demand for a share of French colonial territory, the Pacific press campaign remained a major cause of concern to France. The Italian press, however, is waiting to the end of the Spanish civil war before pressing its claims.

Daladier expressed confidence, nevertheless, in the "solidity" of France and the United States in working for liberty and democracy.

The U.S. ambassador, William Bullitt, outlined ideas similar to those described by Daladier, gave assurance that "we feel that these are worth defending and we intend to defend them."

The strongest applause of the evening was reserved for the Duke of Windsor, who, Club President Max Shoop introduced, gave the remarks that his presence gave the evening a "triumphant" nature.

The duke smilingly declined to address the club.

TRADE POLICY VIEWS AIDED BY SECREDS

Stable Prices, Maximum Possible Consumption Objective House Told

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—Stable prices at a fair level and the maximum possible consumption of goods in Canada should be the objective of the trade policy of the country, in the opinion of the Social Credit group in the house of commons.

Joseph Needham (S.C., Tor.) defended the group in the debate on the Canada-United States trade treaty yesterday but stated "considered view" of his group on record and reminded the house the Social Credit members had been in parliament to work for a new economic system.

He believed in the principle of free trade between nations, said Mr. Needham. "But we say that while there is so much want and poverty in Canada the first concern of the government should be the welfare of the Canadian people."

RESTRICTED CONSUMPTION
"We reaffirm the statement we have often made that foreign trade is not a solution to Canada's economic problems; that our troubles are not so much due to a lack of foreign markets as to restricted consumption at home. Restricted consumption means restricted markets, restricted markets mean restricted production. This in turn means further restricted purchasing power."

"We believe that the basis of all prices for both primary and secondary products should be the cost of production plus a fair profit. To that end we favor proper adjustment of tariffs or subsidies, not the benefit one class only, but for all citizens; that exchange rates should be fixed by agreement between nations having regard to the price levels of the various countries and the rates necessary to reach that of approximate equilibrium. When this is accomplished the general price level will remain stable."

EXCHANGE OF GOODS
"The object of each nation should be to keep its imports and exports in nearly equal value over a period of time so that international trade would become a free exchange of goods and services between nations to their mutual advantage. In the present state of affairs, however, the price level of one country is lower than the price level of another, and this is the cause of the exchange of goods."

"When this treaty is ratified at the end of three years, the Social Credit group will have made all arrangements and forgotten all about the conditions which tried to force us from the Ottawa agreement."

He termed the Canada-United States pact a "political agreement" which has arisen through the failure of Canada and other countries engaged in Canada to get their act set out to do."

SPILT PERIOD
Gordon Graydon (Con. Pse.) urged the government to consider splitting the period in which annual values for duty are assessed on vegetables imported from the United States in order to give a measure of protection to the early and the late produce. The speaker would have no objection because it provides for a shortening of the period at which this added protection is given. "We want it as far as possible with the period in which the vegetables are on the market."

Mr. Graydon also feared lowering of duties on cut flowers would hit the large greenhouse industry in Brampton. On reduction in rates on boots and shoes, killed clothing, coats and lined paper and other products, would have increased competition to other industries.

Maybank (Lib. Winnipeg) said the Social Credit group (Lib. Prince) complained yesterday, the former because it would benefit the Canadian consumer and the latter because it opened U.S. markets to a larger supply of United States fish products from the Maritime provinces.

CHAMBERLAIN PINS FAITH ON EXPORT TRADE

Does More To Reduce Unemployment Than All Artificial Remedies

By J. F. SANDERSON

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Prime Minister Chamberlain pins his faith on the combination of export trade and increased export of goods to reduce unemployment. He said that the export of goods is a significant fact that the easing of international tension which made this possible at the end of last year, will be a factor in the improvement in the trade report which will come in the government from all parts of the country.

Speaking at Blackburn in Lancashire last night, the Prime Minister declared that "even a slight improvement in trade generally does more to reduce unemployment than all the artificial remedies anyone can think of, and it is a significant fact that the easing of international tension which made this possible at the end of last year, will be a factor in the improvement in the trade report which will come in the government from all parts of the country."

DOUBLE OBJECTIVE
This double objective lies behind the trade report arranged for Robert H. B. Chamberlain, secretary of the Department of Overseas Trade, to be delivered in London on Wednesday. The report will show closer economic harmony and assist all of them to prosper.

Chamberlain will arrive in Berlin the middle of March and then go to Warsaw, Moscow, and Stockholm, the whole trip lasting three weeks. His primary purpose will be to see the British trade mission in the whole trip, but he will build up British trade to new men who have been employed at home.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS
Although the government's chief policy for the jobs comes from the British export trade, there are other considerations in the review. One is state assistance of the British cotton industry, which has been hit by Japan. At one time cotton formed the bulk of British exports but now the industry is in the economic doldrums. The government is considering legislation for the cotton trade. It may be introduced in the House of Commons within a week or 10 days. After that, the industry will be in a position to make a decision on the industry, financially assisted by the board of trade. It would have been a success.

RECEIVE PRIORITY
Meanwhile Earl De La Warr, secretary of the board of trade, announced in the house of lords yesterday that unemployed would be given priority in obtaining jobs. The board of trade has been described as Britain's favorite charity. The British public is said to be the most generous in the world. According to a statement made in the House of Commons about $200,000,000 was spent in the last three years on the unemployed. The board of trade has been described as Britain's favorite charity. Printed Silk

British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

STATIONERY and printed silk have been successful in Canada, the H. Harvey Agency, associate secretary of the Canadian Medical Association and president of the United States Hospital Association, told the 13th annual convention of the Association of Western Hospitals here.

Dr. Agnew's address gave impetus to the tuberculosis, operation, diagnosis, clinical, furnishing material and child welfare work and subsidizing non-profit standard hospitals without discrimination.

"The result is voluntary bodies and young communities, counting on this grant, have built hospitals everywhere and few communities are without hospitals or find it necessary to depend upon proprietary institutions."

An interesting experience, he said, he felt after the German Chamber of Commerce where the government turned over to the medical profession the entire work of the hospital, only the relief of the needy, without strings attached.

"In one year the funds totalled one and one-half million dollars," he said. "The first series of the Association, the doctors and druggists on a basis of the salary which they received was satisfactory, but it has proved to be a failure. It has been withered by the hands of the government."

Alberta and British Columbia, he said, had been successful in securing insurance legislation, but neither put it into operation. It was opposed, he said, because no provision was made for medical care of the indigent, the government was not prepared to accept for administration, large groups of low-income workers were exempted from the plan. The plan was deemed unsatisfactory, the plan was deemed unsatisfactory, the plan was deemed unsatisfactory.

NEW DEFENCE SYSTEM FOR NAZI CAPITAL

By LYNN HEINZLINGER
Associated Press Foreign Editor

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The German air force has placed hundreds of balloons on cables around cities and industrial centers of the Reich and established a new "bottle-neck" division to man this new defence system in case of air attack.

The first series of the preparations was contained in newspaper accounts today which said Berlin residents would have a chance to see the new troops in action.

Each balloon is a unit in the German system. A plan of suspending men from cables was discarded as impractical.

The balloons are staggered. Hiding them it would be almost impossible for an aviator to grasp all of them over a given point.

Death Of Maharajah Bares Gigantic Riches In Midst Of Poverty

By J. EDWARD NORRIS
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The death of the Maharajah of Bikaner today brings to mind the paradox that although India is a wretchedly poor country some of the native princes own immense treasures and enjoy great revenues. It is as true today as in Milton's time that "the gorgeous East, with rich attire, shrouds her on her king's barbarous shawl and pearl."

The Maharajah was only the third wealthiest of Indian princes but when he assumed the throne in 1907, King George V he was among other magnificent jewels, a necklace worth $1,000,000, and his annual income was said to be about the same amount, a much more than that of his subjects.

CANNON OF GOLD
He had some 200,000 tons of gold and silver in his vaults, and he was surrounded by bullocks with golden harness. His state elephant had a massive gold necklace, with anklets, tusks and earrings, and was covered with gold.

His accession to a throne which he was to occupy 25 years, a period of rule which exceeded only four times in all recorded history, seemed to support the speculation, the Great Lord, the Emperor of the East, the Maharajah of Bikaner was a romantic figure.

He was taken from a mud hut and poverty where he had been born and served as Maharajah, his princely prerogatives having been deposited in the hands of a British official, a glass of sherbet with the intention of poisoning the British Raj.

QUOTE ELABORATE
The British Government passed a law to strip him of his title, this law had been rendered claims to the throne. The Maharajah was quite illiterate and the Government had to undertake his education. This it did so that he could be a ruler. The Maharajah was quite illiterate and the Government had to undertake his education. This it did so that he could be a ruler.

Once he nearly fell from grace. It was when he was 25 years old, a period of rule which exceeded only four times in all recorded history, seemed to support the speculation, the Great Lord, the Emperor of the East, the Maharajah of Bikaner was a romantic figure.

DUBLIN, Feb. 23.—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera emphasized in a statement Wednesday that Eire would try to maintain its neutrality in any future war despite difficulties that might result from maintaining trade with the United Kingdom.

Mr. de Valera's statement was in answer to a question asked in parliament Feb. 16 expressing fear Eire could not remain neutral in the event of a world war.

Yesterday's statement said Eire had no commitments to Great Britain and remained "free to follow any course Irish interests might dictate."

Following Canada's Lead

Whatever else it has accomplished by aggressive attack on conditions precipitated by the depression, Australia apparently has not succeeded in retaining enough export trade to balance its imports, since the federal treasurer says an increase in the value of exports is necessary to equalize the exchange. For the last fiscal year the Commonwealth had a small favorable balance.

It is worth noting that Australia adopted a "soundly protective" policy as one means to stabilize business against the reaction from the world-wide slump. Experience has evidently shown there, as it did in Canada, that to shut out exports was also to shut in imports. Now, Premier Hepburn says, the Australian Government strongly desires to reach a trade agreement with the United States patterned on the general lines of the agreement made last fall between Canada and the Republic. That is to say, an agreement to reduce tariffs on both sides in order to extend trade, with reduction of "most favored nations" a necessary feature.

Three Provinces Block the Way

A national unemployment insurance scheme will be set up at the present session of parliament if the Governments of Alberta, Quebec and New Brunswick will agree to a constitutional amendment giving parliament power to establish such a system.

This was stated in definite terms by Hon. Norman Rogers on Tuesday. Parliament was only prevented making an all but unanimous declaration of approval of such a scheme by the member for East Edmonton, who talked against the clock until closing time. If this important effort to take a stand on the issue, he succeeded for the day.

This puts the matter up directly to the three provincial Governments. They are blocking the immediate inception of unemployment insurance, for reasons which no doubt seem to them important enough to justify doing so. The public are surely entitled to know precisely what those reasons are, and whether the necessary powers cannot be conceded to the Dominion without surrendering other powers which the provinces may not want to part with.

There is nothing in the report of Mr. Rogers' statement to indicate any desire to start a general overhaul of the constitution or to make any other changes than necessary to enable the Dominion to operate an insurance scheme which would be reasonable men should be able to reach agreement on that single point without much difficulty.

Inciting Trouble

One unpunished act of aggression leads to another, each bolder than the one before. From machine-gunning the motor-car of a British representative near Shanghai early in the war, Japanese forces in China have mile-stoned their operations with a long series of unfriendly acts toward Great Britain, France and the United States, culminating in the air bombardment of Hong Kong.

Quite likely some of these were incidental occurrences, resulting from carelessness or inconsideration rather than intent on the part of the military authorities. But they have been too many, and too progressively serious to not suggest that they were successive steps in a calculated policy of provocation. If Tokyo did not order such violations of neutral rights, it has neither punished the perpetrators nor expressed other than formal and unconvincing regrets.

There is a close parallel between this series of "incidents" and the attitude of the Japanese Government toward the western powers. There have been told the open door in China is to be barred against their trade, regardless of treaties, and that Chinese economy is to be rebuilt on a Japanese pattern. Notes of protest from London, Paris and Washington have been treated with something akin to contempt. The military "incidents" accord too well with this official attitude to be unrelated to it.

Japan evidently is being egged on by its European allies to provoke Britain and France into action in the Orient which would divide their forces and weaken their power to resist encroachment by Italy and Germany in Europe and Africa. As for the United States, risk of incurring its hostility is inseparable from a provocative policy toward the other two countries.

Time To Explain

Members of the legislature, like members of parliament, and readers of some newspapers, have heard and read a good deal lately about the alleged failure of the Mackenzie King Government to "use the public credit in terms of the public need." Without, however, anyone taking the trouble to explain just what the Government ought to do other than to say "Yes."

What the Government is doing to use the public credit for the public good is fairly apparent, though perhaps not sufficiently realized by those keenly aware of the existence and consequences of unemployment. Money, formerly scarce and dear, has been made abundant and cheap. Municipalities are offered 2 per cent loans for self-liquidating projects and to build low-cost houses for rent, and ordinary improvements for the cost of materials used. The provinces are being assisted to build roads, a purely provincial responsibility under the constitution. Federal money is being spent to train youths. The provinces are accommodated with loans at 3 per cent when they have to borrow, and when they cannot repay their loans are extended.

These are very practical uses to which the credit of the country is being put in the attempt to create employment, relieve distress, facilitate the carrying on of public services, help in bettering housing conditions and municipal conditions generally. In what other way is it possible, or supposed to be possible, to employ the public credit in terms of public need but by just such specific uses of the credit where the need is shown to exist?

It is easy to repeat a phrase, and by repeating to invest it with some mystic significance. But unemployment is a real thing, need is real, debt is real, and taxation is real. What exactly is meant by the persistent suggestion that the Dominion authority could at will make these realities unreal, dismiss them, and overnight bring plenty and happiness to everyone?

Editorial Notes

The school board of Victoria, B.C. was reported the other day to have secured a Dominion loan of 2 per cent money with which to build a new school. Edmonton's public school board, which was refused permission to borrow the cost of a new school in the customary way, may find this worth investigating.

Rome heard a rumor, which Berlin knew nothing about, that Mussolini, Hitler and Franco will meet to draw up a formal alliance. It was probably a "feeler," sent out by Il Duce. Franco in control of Spain might conceivably decline to back the aggressive schemes of his present associates unless pledged to do so. Dictators cannot trust each other.

Parties who indulge in libations of low alcohol hereafter will not be able to explain to the doctor that they did not know what it was. New regulations at Ottawa require that it be sold only in containers bearing red labels, carrying the word "poison" and the appropriate representation of a skull and crossbones.

A brief despatch from Barcelona announces that the head of the popular tribunal in that city while it was held by the Government has been shot by an insurgent firing squad. Perhaps he deserved death, but that cannot be assured. In other areas of Fascist Spain, a similar being so high as to be practically prohibitive. Has the airway been constructed just for military purposes? Some of the German battleships have asked this question. Does the T. C. A. not want passengers?

Some months ago an officer of the new air organization stated that passenger fares would be approximately the same as those of competing airlines in the United States. A figure of around 6 cents per mile was mentioned. This would have been most satisfactory fare. But 10 cents is almost twice that amount.

War Clouds Gather Over England

By RALPH PERIN FORSTER

LONDON (By Mail): Here in London there is one question on everybody's lips: Will there be war? I could pursue this question, which is causing headaches to diplomats everywhere, but certain factors can be enumerated which in my opinion spell increasing danger.

Whatever one's views about Mr. Chamberlain's policy as a peacemaker may be it is now clear, since Munich, the totalitarian powers have been enormously encouraged by their success. It is apparent to them, it is to us, that they were forced to yield because we lacked armaments and particularly because of our great air inferiority as compared with Germany and Italy. This is borne out by the fact that the post Munich feeling of relief has again given way to the fear of war or of the threat of war which is once again prevalent.

Dictators do not hold their power by popular vote and to keep it they must resort to means that democracies lack. They solve unemployment by rearmament; finance is secured by mysterious juggling; the popular mind is enslaved by the press and the radio. They accomplish their internal policy with a speed impossible for us who act by mutual consent. The necessities of Dictators make them dangerous; to keep their power they must have both constant new aqueducts and distractions abroad.

The problem of Democracies, and of Great Britain in particular, is firstly to try and equilibrate the grossly unbalanced armaments race. Secondly, we must be able to withdraw before every demand of the totalitarian powers. But that isn't easy: Britain is sea, not air, minded. It means a new outlook, a different defence and public opinion aware slowly.

There is, however, an even worse danger. Supposing one of the Dictators, say Hitler, were to quarrel us over Spain or Menem or Calcutta. Then if we are forced to fight with the complete equality of armaments, we are in a very tight spot. We have completely lost the time factor in preparation for war and move with a speed we cannot equal. "Will we be ready?" is the question which should be asked these days. Dictators do not "Will there be war?" but "When?"

Some people think there is a way out. If we agreed to follow a policy of "appeasement" then we must resign ourselves to becoming another Holland or Belgium. We shall no longer hold the "balance of power" but we shall have "peace." Withdrawal at the point of the gun, as at Munich, is dangerous because success breeds repetition. If another situation like Munich arises and dictators have either to fight or resign themselves to becoming a second rate power.

Our country is split in two regarding our dilemma. Roughly speaking the ruling classes favor the policy of "appeasement." This is understandable as England is still a rich country with everything to lose by war while the dictators have nothing to lose. The man in the street asks when this man Hitler is going to be made to stop interfering with the peace of the world and rather belligerent but he does not want war.

Life in England is completely overshadowed by the threat of war. When you buy groceries you buy extra canned goods, you buy extra food, when you choose a flat or house its bomb-proof possibilities rank equally with the usually more important more important considerations. No one plans for the summer holidays for no one knows what the position will be then or where to go. No one can afford to leave his home and everyday expenditure is likewise being limited. Uncertainty and fear dominate our lives. We cannot be said to have happy times we rapidly become angry.

Perhaps a current joke illustrates the situation: Hitler said to Chamberlain, "What about the appeasement policy?" Chamberlain replied that that would be difficult but it could be arranged. And it was. Later Hitler said, "I want you to resign, Chamberlain, I want Buckingham Palace." Chamberlain said that that would be very very difficult but perhaps it could be arranged. And it was. Then Hitler said, "I want the German Reichstag built along the Rhine." Chamberlain replied that that would be impossible. "I am sorry," that was war.

10 Cents A Mile

February 4 issue of the Canada Gazette announces that standard fares between all points on Trans-Canada Airlines will be 10 cents a mile when passenger travel is started on April 1. The announcement has caused criticism all along the route of the airway, considered one of the finest in the world. The rate is regarded as being so high as to be practically prohibitive. Has the airway been constructed just for military purposes? Some of the German battleships have asked this question. Does the T. C. A. not want passengers?

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWTER

Sixty-six million dollars worth of gold crossed the Atlantic from Europe to America within the last two weeks. Observers are curious. How huge quantities of the useless yellow metal got voyaging, it usually happens that passengers felt by the owners, or a nation is preparing for FLOOD OF GOLD war. The gold didn't come from Britain. Most CROSSES ATLANTIC of it came from the Dutch gulder may need a little bolstering up, but not to the extent of $66,000,000. And Holland isn't planning to go to war with anyone.

None of the wisecracks seems to have connected this flight of gold from Europe with the pressure Hitler is putting upon the Prime Minister of Austria to bring his little principality of 65 square miles into the German Reich.

Thereby hangs a little tale about the care that rich people take of their money when they wish to avoid income tax.

Liechtenstein nestles in a corner of the boundaries formed by Austria and Switzerland. Its people raise cattle for a living, but the government, composed of its Prince and a diet of fifteen members, devised a simpler way of making wealth for the state. Perhaps they saw how wealthy, patriotic Canadians, anxious to avoid income tax, were flocking to the land in which they made their money, had themselves legally metamorphosed into Liechtenstein subjects.

Money was seeking a haven wherein it would be safe from demands for relief and the cost of rearmament. Liechtenstein would offer itself as a safe hide-out for wealth.

Just as joint stock companies in United States favor incorporation under the easy laws of the state, so wealthy, as rich as the laws of Liechtenstein. They hail from countries on both sides of the Atlantic, attracted by the small levy on wealth used to maintain the state, and the fact of its Liechtenstein in the positions they are accustomed to.

Now that Austria is part of the Greater Reich, Hitler would like to be in Liechtenstein and extend the borders of Germany to Switzerland. Perhaps he would like to levy on the rich English and French who have made their money in their wealth to this rich man's haven. He says he won't take Liechtenstein by force; he'll merely deal with the rich estates of the Prince in Germany and Austria, if Liechtenstein doesn't join the Reich.

Liechtenstein would reverse Hitler's luck in extending the borders of the Reich to both sides of the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia have proved expensive. Berlin is said to be wrestling with a plan that will place the Sudeten Germans back into the Czech-Slovakian Federation. That would be the perfect anti-climax after all the propaganda about the rights of the Sudeten Germans and the rejoicing at their inclusion in the Reich.

The Sudeteners on their side are not so sure. German economy for two reasons. First, they need imports of foodstuffs from abroad which must be paid for in foreign currencies. Secondly, the Sudeten area is a highly industrialized area, and produces goods of a kind that the majority of Germans do not need. Czechoslovakia made these goods—glassware, china, jewelry, silk, woollens and fancy goods for export trade. Now that the Sudeten area is part of the Reich, these goods are classified as "made in Germany." Nations that formerly bought them as "made in Czechoslovakia," now refuse them as "made in Germany."

Believe it or not, Czechoslovakia could no longer be dangerous to Germany in time of war. German statesmen are pondering on a plan for the Sudeteners to produce food for the Reich. The Sudeteners are to produce food for the Reich. The Sudeteners are to produce food for the Reich. The Sudeteners are to produce food for the Reich.

"Lucky" Dave's luck didn't hold good for him in the Manitoba field curling tournament. Dave is an Irish sweep came in second in Alan Chambers, young Englishman who ran (unsuccessfully) in the last federal contest. Mr. Dave is one of the LADY LUCK winners whose winnings have not been handed out. A story should be told of the broken hopes and ruined lives of these "easy come, easy go" people, who won money without knowing how to handle it.

On the R.M.S. "Niagara" on its way to Australia, her fare paid by a charitable organization, a waitress who won $5,000 in a lottery sweep two years ago. It looked like a lot of money to her. She quit work, joined a sister in Miami, and within a few days was back in the taking on relief.

Still, I'd chance the moral risk, if a prize, even of $5,000, came my way.

Editor, Bulletin: Through those centuries when Britain was extending her empire over one-quarter of the globe, it was the boast of her statesmen that wherever the British flag flew there was freedom for the trade of the world.

But we said goodbye to all that in 1932, by the Ottawa agreement, we established preferential treatment for our own trade within the empire borders and erected barriers against other nations which they found disadvantageous, and often insupportable.

Germany, Italy and Japan, all of new materials for both their factories, teeming with a population they could with difficulty support, were not alone in their conclusion from our action—surely a justified conclusion if it were war.

I am aware that the blame is not on our shoulders, yet our no doubt well-intentioned trade agreements bore bitter fruit in the international field, and the results are on our doorstep.

In this connection, three significant events have been reported in the last few weeks.

A trade agreement between Germany and Russia, followed by a Hitler speech devoid of recourse toward Russia—significantly a Hitler statement to the Reichstag: "Germany must trade or die" and a statement by Sir Horace Wilson that Great Britain would be willing to discuss the problem of making raw materials available to the countries that formerly bought them as "made in Germany."

Believe it or not, Czechoslovakia could no longer be dangerous to Germany in time of war. German statesmen are pondering on a plan for the Sudeteners to produce food for the Reich. The Sudeteners are to produce food for the Reich. The Sudeteners are to produce food for the Reich.

Walters of the political side of ten wonder what is going on behind the scenes. Some times they get a slight idea of the pressure we can buy with, but as a rule they have to wait until the death of the principal actors to get the solutions to many intrigues and a cable. Sir Robert Borden's memoirs supply many illustrations of Sir Horace Wilson's instance of early Dominion politics.

In 1870, Sir Alexander T. Galt, who had been minister of finance in Manitoba, was called to Ottawa to be in the debate on the address in the House of Commons against Sir John Macdonald, who wrote on Feb. 2, 1870, to Sir John Ross in London, England.

"Galt came out. I am glad to say, formally in opposition, and relieved me very much. He is a very good man. His warm alliance with the Lower Canadian French rendered it necessary for me to put up with a good deal. But he is now finally dead as a Canadian politician. He has come out squarely. APICULTURE DEPARTMENT VARSITY NEED

Necessity Becomes Imminent As Production Of Honey Grows

The energetic activities of Alberta beekeeping associations have brought forward the pressing need of extension of the scope of the faculty of agriculture in the University of Alberta. It was made known Wednesday by Dr. W. A. Kerr, president, stating that a department of apiculture was needed in that faculty.

Speaking recently at the opening of the Beekeepers' Short Course of studies being currently conducted at the university in conjunction with the provincial department of agriculture and the Edmonton Beekeepers Association, Dr. Kerr stated that such a need was becoming imminent. He further stated that current university budgets made it impossible to establish this branch of the faculty.

With the growing importance of honey production in Alberta, Dr. Kerr felt that it would soon be impossible to ignore the necessity of apiculture. He considered that these were just as important as some other branches of agriculture.

Beekeepers Continue Class At University

Students of the Beekeepers' course bring currently conducted at the University of Alberta, in conjunction with the provincial department of agriculture and the Edmonton Beekeepers Association, gained much knowledge of their trade when Dr. H. H. Russell, provincial apiculturist, lectured on bee colonies and problems of management on Wednesday.

In afternoon lectures, Mr. H. H. Russell explained the care necessary in handling package bees, and the care of the colony. In a laboratory experiment, he explained the necessary equipment for an apiary and the best method of management.

During the afternoon the attendance of the course also heard Dr. M. Putnam, director of the extension department of the provincial department of agriculture, speaking on the problems of beekeeping associations.

In the evening Dr. E. H. Moss, head of the department of botany of the University of Alberta, lectured on the structure of flowers and on the structure of the honey bee.

NON-RESIDENT TRADERS MAY BE LICENSED

Provide Unfair Competition For City Dealers, Council Told

City council, at a special meeting Wednesday, instructed Solicitor T. E. Garfield to prepare a charter amendment giving the city power to classify and license non-resident traders. The draft amendment will be submitted to council at its regular meeting Monday.

Desirability of the city securing such power arose from a situation in Calgary. Ald. Blair Patterson told the council that he had received information from a trader in California that he was planning to move to Edmonton after five years of operation. The trader was to be licensed by the city to the detriment of established dealers.

The dealers were not handling this fruit owing to irregularity of delivery.

$50,000 TRADE
The competition with resident dealers, Mr. Patterson said, was unfair as they had established headquarters, employed regular staffs, and were substantial taxpayers. The fruit business of northern Alberta, for which Edmonton is the distributing center, is worth $50,000 a year to this city in taxes, salaries, rents and other exchange, Mr. Patterson said.

He stated that as Calgary had taken steps to exclude such traders, it might be expected to appear in Edmonton and steps for control should be taken.

LUMBER FELLOWS
Outside lumber millmen, he added, were peddling lumber from house to house, undercutting established lumber dealers here and this also would come under control. The city council felt that it would not be possible to stop builders ordering lumber directly from mills, delivered to jobs, but peddling might be curbed.

It is proposed to have this amendment ready for inclusion with a number of others now being prepared for submission to the Alberta legislature.

Macdonald was educated at Villa Maria College, Montreal, and was married March 8, 1887, to Supt. Macdonald. With him she lived for a short time at Battledore and Leithbridge, being transferred to Port Macdonald where they lived for 18 years. Her husband died in Leithbridge in April, 1906.

Mrs. Macdonald's home was an "open house" for everyone in the country and she was lovingly known as the mother under her husband's command as "Aunt Min."

Among those who knew her intimately in Macdonald's early days were Sir John A. Macdonald and Lady Macdonald, Sir Thomas White, Lady White and their daughters and more than one Governor-General.

Always the friend of the sick and the needy, Mrs. Macdonald gave unstintingly of her service when asked required nursing care and at all times was bountiful in her charities to the needy and the unfortunate.

She introduced the Sacred Heart Society to Alberta and for many years was its president.

After her marriage to Col. Carstairs when at that time a member of the North West Mounted Police, she lived with him at Grouard and High Prairie from 1884 to 1898 when they moved to Edmonton.

Glenwright Tells Student Lawyers Britain Must Arm

"The world has realized that the peace of the world cannot be maintained with an unarmed Britain," J. W. Glenwright, city insurance man, told members of the University of Alberta Law Club at their 18th annual banquet in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday evening.

In the course of his address, the featured item of the evening, he charged that the United States was largely to blame for conditions in the world today because of their failure to support President Wilson's plans.

Toast to the 21 members of the graduating class was offered by G. H. Steer, K.C. Also included in the program were two plays presented by the members of the Lexovna Club made up of first-year law students.

Among the distinguished guests were Hon. Chief Justice Harvey, Mr. Justice Ford, Mr. Justice Shopherd, Dr. W. A. Kerr, president of the University; Dean J. A. Weir, head of the law school; G. H. Steer, K.C.; Dr. D. R. Craig, K.C.; J. J. Cairns, K.C.; Ronald Macdonald.

20-MILL RATE PROPOSED FOR SPORTS CLUBS

Tax Reduction Is Recommended For Curling, Badminton Organizations

Mr. A. Blair Patterson, at a meeting of the city finance committee Wednesday, proposed that curling and badminton clubs which own their premises or rent them from the city receive grants or other benefits which would reduce payments to the city to the equivalent of 20 mills. At present they are taxed the regular 35-mill rate.

The proposal was referred to city commissioners to investigate and report back to the committee. Taxation of these clubs originally was referred from city council after representations had been made for concessions on behalf of five curling and two badminton clubs.

GOLF IS LUXURY
"Community leagues operate their sports on land which the city owns and we subsidize them as well," Mr. Patterson said. "The tax clubs which own and operate their own premises are having difficulty in paying their way and should receive some help. I would class golf as a luxury sport and would suggest a 20-mill rate."

As instances of one benefit he mentioned Mr. Patterson said that a 20-mill rate would require the Edmonton public libraries during the last year than during the year 1935, it was revealed in the annual report, given by Miss Grace Dineen, acting librarian, at a Tuesday night meeting of the board. Number of books borrowed in 1935 totalled 362,324.

Number of readers showed a definite swing to historical and detailed topics and was attributed to unsettled conditions in Europe. Greater use was made of the reference department, the report showed.

New borrowers registered during 1935 numbered 3,914, while the number of books in stock at present totalled 104,896, it was revealed.

Revenue for the year amounted to $3,076 and expenditures $3,048. Miss Dineen reported.
